

What do breakfast and bicycles have in common in Newark Central School District schools?

Everything March 4th-8th.

Every student who eats breakfast in NCS D schools those days will automatically be registered in a drawing to win one of 8 brand new beautiful bicycles that will be given away the following week

Warren Bushart, Food Service Director for the NCS D, Marion CSD, Pal-Mac CSD and the Wayne Education Center said the initiative is part of the district's celebration of National School Breakfast week designed to heighten awareness of the importance of eating a healthy breakfast each morning.

The bicycles have been donated to the NCS D by General Mills as part of its National School Breakfast Week promotion. "We're trying a couple of General Mills' new breakfast products and they donated the bicycles to us," Bushart said.

The bicycles, two apiece at Newark High School, Middle School and Kelley School, and 1 each at Perkins and Lincoln schools will be awarded to lucky students whose names are drawn the week beginning March 11th.
