

Sara McLean Is Administrative Intern At Kelley School This Year

Newark Central School District Committee on Special Education Chairperson Sara McLean is functioning part-time this year as an Administrative Intern at Kelley School.

In so doing she is meeting the building level internship requirement for the administrative degree she is working on obtaining at the University of Rochester.

“I am so excited to be back at Kelley School!,” McLean said. “Although I am coming back in a different role, I am looking forward to being back in the building supporting and developing relationships with students and staff, as well as learning from Mr. Hamelinck.”

Prior to becoming CSE Chairperson a year and a half ago, she worked before that as a school psychologist in the Newark Central School District for 12 years and worked at various times in Perkins, Lincoln and Kelley Schools.

“Kelley School is lucky to have an administrative intern of Mrs. McLean’s caliber,” Kelley Principal Jeff Hamelinck said. “She has strong connections with staff, families and students built during her experiences in Newark that will certainly strengthen our school community. We’re looking forward to the gifts and talents that she will bring to Kelley School.”

McLean earned her Bachelor of Science Degree from Clemson University and her Master’s Degree in Psychology from Alfred University.

McLean and her husband, Brian live in Penfield with their eight-year-old daughter Ainsley.
