“Congratulations and thank you to our student-athletes and teams who qualified for Scholar Athlete recognition from New York State. I am in awe of how our young people have responded to the adversity brought upon their lives by COVID-19 and these student athletes maintaining excellence in their academics while committing fully to the rigors of a sports season is inspiring, said Chris Corey, Director of Health, Physical Education and Athletics for the Newark Central School District. “It is reaffirming that when they are engaged, challenged, and supported, our young Newark Reds can do anything, in any environment.
