

The Pirate Toy Fund, a Rochester non-profit organization that freely distributes toys year-round to children-in-need throughout the Greater Rochester region will visit Kelley School November 19th.

Kelley School grades 3-5 S.H.A.P.E. teacher Christina Sullivan's mom, Susan Sullivan, who lives in Fairport, serves on the organization's Board of Directors. Since the Pirate Toy Fund was just awarded a grant to expand its outreach throughout the region, Susan Sullivan suggested it come to Kelley School.

Christina Sullivan thought that was a great idea as did Kelley School Principal Jeff Hamelinck.

So on Nov. 19th, the organization's pirates will visit the school and students will participate in a Pirate Assembly, carnival games and more.

"The organization travels around the region providing extraordinary memorable events for kids and this will be an amazing day for our students filled with celebration," Sullivan said. "Besides the fun-filled activities, every student will receive a toy and a goody bag."

She also said toys will be given to the school to be distributed anonymously during the holiday season to needy students.
