“The Board of Education and the NCSD school community was so saddened to learn that one of our newest Board members had passed away so unexpectedly,” BOE President Yvonne MacTaggart said Monday.

Shannon’s ardent zeal as a new Board member was remarkable. She wanted to learn as much as she could, as quickly as she could about the inner workings of our school district and was eager to be a part of every committee,” MacTaggart said. “I can still remember being so moved when I heard her say ‘You don’t know how much this means to me and my family’ when she was sworn in at the organizational meeting this summer. We will really miss her and on behalf of the Board of Education and the entire school community, we send our heartfelt condolences to her family.”

“I believe in knowing what fulfills each of us – we have to know and understand our why,” said Superintendent Susan Hasenauer. “For Shannon, bringing diversity, equity and inclusionary practices to the forefront of our District was part of her why and her voice did not go unheard. Moving forward, we will remember her strong commitment to the students of Newark and continue to identify and eliminate barriers that prevent the full participation of some groups which was one of her passions.”

The Board of Education meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Wayne-Finger Lakes BOCES Conference Center Diamond Room.
