

Welcome Jessica!

Newark High School Class of 2000 graduate, Jessica Gerber recently made a career change and became the new Newark Middle School secretary September 13th.

She filled the vacancy created by Vanessa Stewart's June retirement after 24 years on the job.

Before coming to NMS, Gerber worked for seven years as a Certified Ophthalmic Assistant at Rochester Eye Associates.

She's very happy and eager to learn in her new position and enjoys working with her new co-workers.

"They are so welcoming and patient. I just love them," Gerber said. "I love to learn and love fast-paced challenges. I love the variety of duties on this job and I love the kids."

"Jess has made a great addition to our Middle School staff," said NMS Principal Teresa Prinzi. "Her upbeat positive 'can do' attitude is contagious. She is making good connections with staff, students and families. We are very glad to have her with us."

Having attended SUNY Brockport for four years majoring in physical education, Gerber had originally planned to teach. But she said working in a school in her hometown is the next best thing.

She and husband, Shawn Gerber, live in Macedon with their four children, Kadin, 15, Marli 13, Aisley 9, and Harper, 2. Gerber is also a stepmother to Shawn's daughter, Brittney, 23.

When not working, Gerber enjoys spending time with her family, attending her children's sporting events. She also loves spending time outside and with friends and loved ones.
